

J.L. GRANATSTEIN, OC, Ph.D, LL.D, D.Litt, FRSC

Jack Lawrence Granatstein was born in Toronto on 21 May 1939. He attended Toronto public schools, Le College Militaire Royal de St-Jean (Grad. Dipl., 1959), the Royal Military College, Kingston (B.A., 1961), the University of Toronto (M.A., 1962), and Duke University (Ph.D., 1966). He served in the Canadian Army (1956-66), then joined the History Department at York University, Toronto (1966-95) where, after taking early retirement, he is Distinguished Research Professor of History Emeritus. He was the Rowell Jackman Fellow at the Canadian Institute of International Affairs (1996-2000), is a member of the Royal Military College Board of Governors (1997-), and from July 1998 to June 2000 was the Director and CEO of the Canadian War Museum in Ottawa. He was then Special Adviser to the Director of the Museum (2000-01) and is now chair of the Museum's Advisory Council (2001-).

In 2003, he will be the J.B. Smallman Visiting Professor at the University of Western Ontario.

Granatstein has held the Canada Council's Killam senior fellowship twice (1982-4, 1991-3), was editor of the Canadian Historical Review (1981-84), and was a founder of the Organization for the History of Canada. He has been a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada since 1982 and in 1992 was awarded the Society's J.B. Tyrrell Historical Gold Medal "for outstanding work in the history of Canada." His book, The Generals (1993), won the J.W. Dafoe Prize and the UBC Medal for Canadian Biography. He has been awarded honorary doctorates by Memorial University of Newfoundland (1993), the University of Calgary (1994), Ryerson Polytechnic University (1999), the University of Western Ontario (2000), and McMaster University (2000). He is a Senior Fellow of Massey College (2000-). The Conference of Defence Associations Institute gave him the Vimy Award "for achievement and effort in the field of Canadian defence and security" (1996). He is an Officer of the Order of Canada (1997).

Granatstein writes on 20th Century Canadian national history--the military, defence and foreign policy, Canadian-American relations, the public service, politics, and the universities. He comments regularly on historical questions, defence, and public affairs in the press and on radio and television; he provided the historical commentary on the CBC-TV's coverage of the 50th anniversaries of D-Day (1994), V-E Day, and V-J Day (1995); and he speaks regularly here and abroad. In 1995 he served as one of three commissioners on the Special Commission on the Restructuring of the Canadian Forces Reserves (chaired by the Rt. Hon. Brian Dickson, former Chief Justice of Canada), and in 1997, he advised the Minister of National Defence on the future of the Canadian Forces. He is an adjunct fellow of the University of Calgary's Centre for Military and Strategic Studies (1997-), he was co-chair and is now chair of the Council for Canadian Security in the 21st Century (2001-), and he is chair of the Advisory Committee of the Canadian Defence and Foreign Affairs Institute (2002-). He is also a member of the Council of Historica and the Advisory Boards of the Dominion Institute and Canstats.

His many scholarly and popular books include The Politics of Survival: The Conservative Party of Canada 1939-45 (1967), Peacekeeping: International Challenge and Canadian Response (1968), Canada's War: The Politics of the Mackenzie King Government, 1939-45 (1975, 1990), Ties that Bind: Canadian-American Relations in Wartime (1975), Broken Promises: A History of Conscription in Canada (1977, 1985), American Dollars/Canadian Prosperity (1978), A Man of Influence: Norman Robertson and Canadian Statecraft (1981), The Ottawa Men: The Civil Service Mandarins, 1935-57
