Where tomorrow's public policy begins today

AIMS is an independent, non-partisan social and economic public policy think tank based in Halifax, NS. It examines such crucial issues as public education, health care, public finances, equalization, natural resources, Atlantica and demographics.

Good public policy takes time and vision...

AIMS presents to university students on freedom and responsibility in education

“Over the past fifteen years AIMS has attacked pre-conceptions, assaulted ‘norms’, disproved truisms, and upset conventional wisdom. What we can achieve in the next fifteen is only limited by our imagination and our willingness to commit energy and resources in pursuit of those new possibilities.

This is truly our time – our time to make a difference, to focus government on our needs, not our wants, and to test our ideas for doing so against the best anyone else has to offer.”

What are people saying about AIMS?

"Dollar for dollar the best think tank in the country."
-Rt. Hon. Stephen Harper, Prime Minister of Canada

"The Special Forces of the think tank movement"
-David Frum, Journalist

"They do tremendously useful work. And I can assure you that people in government pay attention to what they say. I urge you to support this organization."

-Maxime Bernier, MP for Beauce, on AIMS

"I love your work. I wish I had known your work maybe 10 years ago. I could have stolen it all and advanced the cause of education reform even faster in Florida."

-Former Governor Jeb Bush
